"ASK THE MAN WHO TOWS ONE"

Stop any Airstream owner and ask him why he owns an Airstream...he'll tell you that it's the finest travel trailer made. There's a reason for this...he has lived and travelled far and wide in his Airstream and he knows exactly what it will do. Here's what one Airstream owner, Mr. Baugh of Texas, has to say:

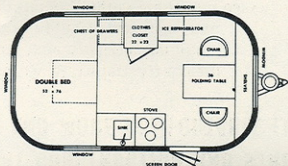

"In my business I have found great need for a trailer. I have owned 13 different trailers in the past and because of the great number of miles I travel, it has been necessary for me to trade a trailer every six months.

"When it came time to buy my 14th trailer, I decided on an AIRSTREAM. I have now owned my present AIRSTREAM over 18 months, have traveled a total of 70,000 miles, have only spent 16 dollars for maintenance and still see no need to trade my present trailer in.

"Its slightly higher cost at time of purchase has more than paid itself off. I have found my gas consumption to be less and I can cover more territory faster and easier than I have ever been able to before with less strain on both myself and my car. Of all trailers I have owned, the AIRSTREAM is the easiest to tow."

TRAVEL TESTED OVER THE HIGHWAYS OF THE WORLD

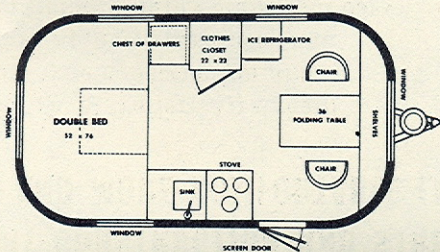

Years of experience and millions of miles of travel testing are behind the many exclusive features incorporated in every Airstream. It will go anywhere, and to prove it we take them there—Mexico, Central America, Canada, Europe, Cuba and many other exciting places. In many instances, the Trailer Caravan Tours pioneered by Wally Byam were the first ever to go into some of these countries. Rough roads, steep grades, unbridged rivers and weather combined to put trailers to the most gruelling tests. What does this mean to you? Simply that the Airstream has no peer in travel trailers—it has gone and will go just any place that you could dream of wanting to go with your automobile.
