

AIRSTREAM®

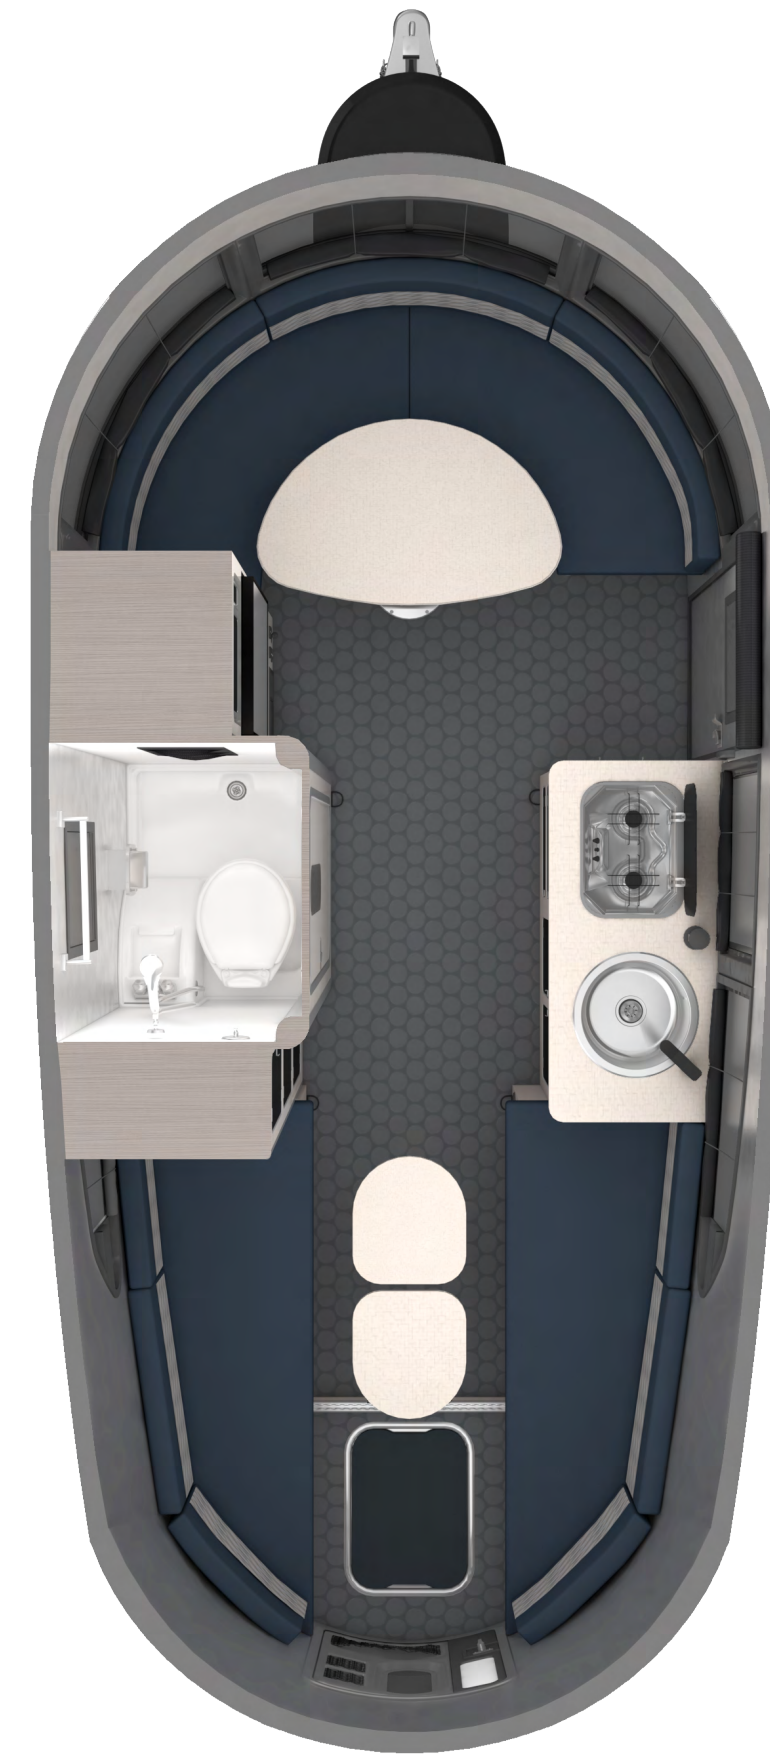

Basecamp Travel Trailer Floor Plan Comparison

Outdoor adventure looks different for every adventurer. That's why Airstream's Basecamp family of travel trailers is designed to accommodate a wide range of exploration and excitement. Every Basecamp features Airstream's legendary design and quality. Its aerodynamic shape makes towing more efficient for both combustion and EV tow vehicles, while the handmade craftsmanship and quality materials — the aluminum shell, composite flooring, and rivets — ensure that every Basecamp is rugged enough to take you on countless adventures into nature's secluded nooks and crannies.

All you have to do is find your ideal Basecamp, the one with the right length, layout and off-road features to meet your unique wants and needs.

Basecamp 16: Two for the Road

- Comfortable Sleeping Space: Two sitting benches can serve as single beds, a combined half bed, or a complete bed big enough for two.
- Tons of Gear Storage: The sleeping and sitting area can be cleared to create uninterrupted space to stow human-powered gear such as skis, snowboards, bikes or fishing poles.
- Easy Loading Rear Door: This large rear entrance allows you to load quickly and easily. Leave it open at the campsite to enjoy more views and breezes.
- A Kitchen With a View: The galley wraps around the travel trailer's spacious front window to provide a panoramic view for the cook. The two-burner gas stove has a tempered glass cover so it can double as extra counter space when not in use. Under the counter, you'll find the refrigerator, optional microwave and storage for kitchen gear.
- The Perfect Convenience: The space-efficient wet bath, with its shower, sink and toilet, is another feature that allows you to roam beyond traditional campgrounds.

Hitch Weight: 410 lbs.

Basecamp 20: More Capacity for People and Fun

- Flexible Sleeping Areas: The versatile rear area allows for a variety of sleeping configurations, including one large bed that spans the Basecamp's width, two twin-sized beds, or one bed with a bench next to it. Need more sleeping room? The dinette table in the front area can drop to create a bed big enough for two kids.
- Gear Loading Rear Door: Like Basecamp 16, the 20 allows for easy loading and more connection to the outside through the large rear door.
- More Space for Big Gear: The Basecamp 20's added length allows even more room to stow human-powered gear. Go ahead: slide that kayak, surfboard, or mountain bike through the rear door.
- Added Storage: Three deep cabinets across from the galley keep gear organized. The Plexiglass doors with secure latches allow you to quickly find what you need.
- All the Kitchen You Need: The Basecamp 20's kitchen, located in the travel trailer's midsection, has all the features of the 16 with a slightly larger refrigerator.
- More Headroom in the Head: Because of the 20's higher ceiling, the wet bath shower provides 3.5 inches more headroom than the 16.
- Added Waste Capacity: The 20 has both gray water and waste water tanks with a combined capacity of 49 gallons compared to the 16's single 24-gallon gray/waste water tank.
